It certainly looks as though the office cat escaped from the editorial rooms in the World building Tnesday night. Surely the most partisan writer would hardly regard the spring elections in New York, a State necessary to the Democrats as affording very encouraging indications of the success of that party this fall.

Contradicts Itself. The Boston Herald over-reaches itself in the discussion of the silver question. It now says that the passage of the Blanc bill would be regarded "as proving the popular strength of the s lvermania in the United States, and as pointing to the probable success of the silver men in the coming elections." Too Mary Houses Are Death Traps Because of Vitlated Air. Dr. Howerd Van Rensselser, of Albany, has written an essay on "Impure Air and Ventilation of Private Dwellings" that was awarded a prize by the New York State Medical association. Here are some extracts from Dr. Van Rensselsen"s article: Were people killed outright by foul air, its dangers would be carefully guarded against, bu; its effects are slow and insidious, and o ten ascribed to other causes, as its effect at any one time is slight, we grow accustomed to its results because, as its effect at any one time is slight, we grow accustomed to its and disregard its risks, and after being in its presence a few minutes our seless become dulled and do not warn us of the danger.

But while the immediate effects seem trifling, yet it is true that any prolonged vitiation of this source of supply interferes with the proper working of our organizations and depresses our vital functions. Statisticians have shown that of the causes of mortality the most important and far thest reaching is impure air.

We keep our windows closed a great part of the year-during the winter to keep out the cold and in the heatest term in summer to exclude the heat—so that the circulation and renewal of air in our houses are at these times slight. The incoming air introduced for ventilation may be vitiated or not, according to our surroundings; but once in, it may become contagninated in thes very interesting reminiscences of Thomas Carlyle, which are very fresh and racy. Articles of reminiscences appear to be dominant in this issue. Boston Houses See an Extraordinary Demand.

Best Indication in the World of Truest Merit.

What Fred L. Carter, E. P. Bryant and Others have to Sav.

The remarkable demand for the famous Paine's celery compound in this city, is evidently equaled elsewhere. Druggists here say that it is undoubtedly the bestspring medicine that a person can take.

The following is from no less 2 conservalive paper than the Boston Journal: "If the great Dr. Phelps, Dartmouth's famous professor, had lived to see last week, he would have been delighted. "There was such an extraordinary pub-lic demand for the wonderful remedy he discovered that for several days druggists found it impossible to keep up with the found it impossible to keep up with the orders.

Said Mr. Fred L. Carter, of the firm of Carter, Carter & Kilham, to a reporter yesterday:

"It is an actual fact that despite the steady increase that has been going on for a long while, and the particularly rapid increase within the past few months, both in the size and the frequency of our orders for Paine's celery compound, and although we have recently been ordering more than usual, yet the first of the week we found ourselves mable to supply the wants of our customers.

The primary condition for ventilation is that the incoming air shall be pure; it must be pure external atmosphere. Air that is drawn from small, closed courts, or that his blawn over refuse or that rises from a ce lar is unfit for continuous breathing. The sun rarely or never visits these spots and the wind gets no chance to sweep through them. Especially bad is the cellar aff, as cellars are apt to be damp, moldy and dark, and are frequently polluted by decaying vegetables and the ash heap, and currents if air are constantly passing through them from the soil below, so that sewer air from defective drainage in the neighborhood may easily enter and be sucked through the house. This danger is particularly great if the house is heated by a furnace whose wooden air box passes through the cellar.

In providing inlets a number of things have to be taken into consideration. The inlets must be so placed that the air cannot blow directly on the occupants of the room, and they must be of such size that sufficient incoming air is obtained without a high velocity, for if the movement is greater thanktwo or [three feet per second drafts are experier ced, and besides a slow current is more favorable for uniform diffusion than a rapid one.

If it can be avoided air should not enter through openings at the level of the floor, as dust readily falls into the openings and fouts the air, and if the incoming air is cooler than the temperature of the room it chills the feet. The place of admittance of cool air should be above the heads of the occupants, and means should be taken to diminish the current if too rapid, and the flow should be alrected appared, as there, meeting the warmer/air of the ceiling, it mingles with it, becomes warmer and gradually spreads through the room. The external, openings of the inlets should give on a place where the air is meonpanimated. They should be numerous and small, rather than large and single, as they are this less liable to cause drafts.

When the conditions are such that the window caunat be freely opened, it can be arranged in the of several ways to provide sufficient frish air. Hinches-Bird's method consists of placing a movable block of two durer l we have recently neen ordering more than usual, yet the first of the week we found ourselves unable to supply the wants of our customers.

"And this was the experience of all the other large houses, I hear. Of course, a call like this represents a big demand upon the retail drugglists, and is a very good indication of the merits of the remedy."

A well-known physician of Boston who overheard the conversation remarked to the reporter: "A remedy of such undisputed excellence as Paine's celery compound must always be in greater and greater demand. It is the one remedy that is prescribed and recommended by intelligent physicians as a cure for the woful ills that result from a diseased nervous system and impure blood.

"Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine, it is not a sarsaparilla, it is not a mere tonic, it is not an ordinary nervine—it is, as any physician will tell you, as far beyond them as the diamond is superior to common glass."

Said Mr. Wood, of the firm of Weeks & Potter: "From everywhere, on almost every list from our numerous customers, East and West, there comes an order for Paine's celery compound. Our sales are very heavy, and constantly increasing; have doubled within a very few months. Paine's celery compound is one of those standard things that any house of high standing is glad to speak well of and to see a large demand for. We sell a great deal of it over our relail counters—more, in fact, than of anything of its kind."

Mr. Bartlett, with Gilman Brothers, sald, in substance: "Every relail druggist sends to the wholesaler with whom he trades what is called a 'want list' On the want lists that we see almost every thus there's the item, Taine's celery compound. If the service in the demand for it." pound.' There is a fast but steady increase in the demand for it."

in the demand for it.

Mr. Gilman gave the same information.

"It is having an immense sale with us," said Mr. E. P. Bryant of George C. Goodwin & Co. "For several days last week we were really mable to fill our orders."

Mr. Bryant went on to speak of the remedy itself, "It is one of the few articles," he said, "that we never hear a complaint about. Lots of my personal friends are using it, and they all speak of it in the highest terms. We knew the value of the preparation long ago, and our prophecy that some day it would stand in the very front rank of popularity is coming true."

stand in the very front rank of popularity is coming true.

Said Mr. George L. Lawrence, Treasurer of the Rust & Richardson Drug Company:

"Paine's celery compound has come to be a standard remedy for diseases resulting from weakened nerves and impure blood. When I tell you that within a year its sales have increased three or four times and that the demand has been and is today a steadily increasing one, you will understand the favor in which it is held by those who have used it. We had the experience of the other Boston houses the first of last week—we were sold out so rapidly that our customers had to wait two or three days for the compound."

Paine's celery compound is having this wonderful sale because it is good.

Because it never fails to give relief. Because it never fails to give relief.

Because it never fails to give relief.
Because by its alse so many have been restored to health.
Because it has been demonstrated beyond doubt that it is exactly what is claimed for it, that it is a great nerve and brain strengthener and restorer, that it cores nervous debility and exhaustion, neuralgia, sleeplessness, dyspensia, and all blood diseases.

Millons of dollars are lost each year from the inability of the planters to harvest it. Col. A. L. Ellis of Austin, Texas, a few years since had 2000 acres of cotton, white ar a snowbank with its fibrous burden, ploughed under, unable to hire labor to save cotton which if in the bale would have brought $50,000. The vexatious experiences of the cotton planters in the picking season are innumerable.

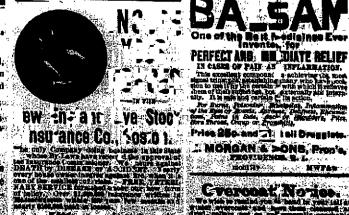

Monday is spont hustling around the nearest town biring some influential uncle or aunty to assist in securing cotton pickers. If lucky, his gang commence work on Tuesday, and barring rain, a show, a strike for higher wages, a holiday, a wedding, a dance, a cake walk, a funeral or some other entertainment, he keeps them at work until Friday night, when the team must be furnished to haul them back to town, for the combined wealth of Gould and Vanderbilt would scarcely tempt the average dusky cotton picker to work on Saturday.

It is little wonder that the Southern planter who has seen it at work should hail with enthusiasm the advent of the successful Cotton Picker, which he has dreamed of and classed with the flying machine as something beyond the ingenuity of this generation, and which no evidence would convince that it existed except thal sight of it practically ploking cotton in the field. Millons of dollars are lost each year from sight of it practically picking cotton in the

The machine is the invention of Angus Campbell, born in Hamilton, Ontario, now a resident of Waco, Texas. He conceived Campbell, born in Hamilton, Ontario, now a resident of Waco, Texas. He conceived the machine seven years ago, and has persistently and constantly labored since to develop it, until now it does its work as do all labor saving machines, better than by hand, gathers a larger per cont. From the plant, and a cleaner sample, freer from trash and dirt, gathers that which is ripe and only that which is ripe, leaving the blossoms and unripe fruit uninjured to ripen for a later picking, doing its work with all the ease and certainty that the harvester binds wheat, the mowing machine cuts grass, or the sewing machine makes a seam, and is as simple as bitter of them. The interests involved are so great that the results of the use of these machines, when reduced to figures, bewilders the brain. It is expected to save $80,000,000 annually in harvesting the cotton crop, a sum so great that the mere mention of it tends to create doubt and make it more difficult to raise money to manufacture machines, of which $0,000 are needed for the next crop; but the doubts are disappearing like the mists before the morning sus. The truth is mighty and will prevail, and the evidence that the Lone Star Cotton Picker is a success is direct, positive and incontrovertible.

A full size machine, direct from the cotton field, is now at the office of the Company, 31 Mills $1., Boston, where all are invited to witness its working.
